

A Liturgy for
THE MORNING OF A FUNERAL

O Christ Who Reclaims What We Have Lost,
Even here at the epicenter of our sorrow,
kindle afresh our eternal hope.

Remind us that this song of lament
we sing today will not endure forever.

At the last, its discordant strains
will be unmade, and changed,
and woven back into the perfect patterns
of a greater melody of joy and praise.

This story does not end where some would say it ends, upon this funeral day.

Make of us, O God, a people shaped even now by these songs of your coming redemption.

For today's goodbye is like the pause
that stalls a single line of poetry,
and we feel for a time the tension of that phrase suspended, unresolved.

But you, O Christ, are the Poet King, who crafts, creates, and labors to bring all things right—so that even this briefly
interrupted line will find its great, fulfilling rhyme in the time of that glad wedding
feast, when you, our God and groom,
receive your bride.

And all the gains that death had ever made
will be reclaimed in resurrected life.

Now, even as a sailor in the dark of night
might chart a true course by the brightest star,
so let us navigate the sadness of these hours
with hearts fixed upon the light of the hope of that promised and pending resurrection.

Amen.

Obituary

Bobby Glynn Solomon, 71, of Fernandina Beach, Florida, went Home to enjoy the deeper joys in January of 2025, after fighting for his life for several months. He sustained a brain injury while cleaning up trees on family property in Coffee County, Georgia after Hurricane Helene.

He was married 49 ¼ years to his "favorite wife" Regina Fisher Solomon and was blessed by his "favorite daughter and son-in-law", Jessie and Daniel Fox, currently residing in Argentina. He is also survived by his "favorite brother" Butch Solomon (Lanita) of Knoxville, Tennessee and his "favorite sister" Janet Calhoun (Charlie) of Fernandina Beach. He was son of the late Doc and Evelyn Solomon of Alma, Georgia.

After graduating from Bacon County High School in Alma, Bob attended Georgia Tech in Atlanta and later got his MBA from Stanford University in Palo Alto, California. He worked in companies in Atlanta, Houston, Colorado Springs, San Francisco, Birmingham, and Denver during his career. He moved from Colorado to Fernandina Beach in 2012 when he retired after being the Vice President of American Oil & Gas Company in Denver.

Bob was a well loved member of First Baptist Church of Fernandina Beach and on the Building Committee. He was an active member on the board of Fernandina Beach Christian Academy.

Bob loved spending time with family and friends, photography, fishing, kayaking, hunting, hiking, working on "the farm", and skiing in Colorado.

Bob will be most remembered by his loved ones for his service, smile, kindness, generosity, selflessness, loyalty and example of a Godly man. His legacy will continue on in the many lives he personally touched.

Thank you so much for the numerous ways you have loved and supported our family during this time!
